

RADIATION PROTECTION AUTHORITY OF ZIMBABWE (RPAZ)

“...PROTECTING PEOPLE AND THE ENVIRONMENT FROM RADIATION EFFECTS...”

Public Notice

The Radiation Protection Authority of Zimbabwe (RPAZ) is a statutory body tasked to regulate the peaceful use of radiation in order to protect people and the environment from the effects of radiation. In line with this mandate and in terms of the Radiation Protection Act (Chapter 15:15) it is a requirement that all persons/facilities possessing or using radiation sources should be in possession of an authorization certificate issued by RPAZ.

The facilities and organizations listed below have been licensed by RPAZ to possess and use radiation sources for the year 2011, as of June 30, 2011. Any other facilities and organizations in possession of, or using radiation sources are doing so illegally and could be exposing workers, the public and the environment to unacceptable levels of risk.
